

Welcome

Thank you for using the Fire Service Resources Network. This site is designed to help members of the fire service with the day to day administration of a fire department. It is also designed to provide a forum to air fire service issues and to discuss new ideas. In order for this site to be successful, it takes all of us to freely contribute by submitting items in the categories below. These categories will become pages on this site in the very near future.

GUEST AUTHOR

This page will consist of one or two articles written by fire service personnel who do not normally get an opportunity to be published in a national fire service magazine. There is no limit as to the topic of these articles but they must be related to the fire service. A participant does not necessarily have to have great writing skills. The web site coordinator will edit these articles.

FIRE SERVICE FORUM

This page will consist of posting a fire service issue on a weekly basis and invite the viewers of the site to express their opinion on these issues. We encourage all site viewers to suggest issues to be discussed and to contribute to these discussions. The web site coordinator will post all postings whose content will not offend any race, creed or gender.

LESSON OF THE MONTH

This page will consist of a training suggestion submitted by a web site viewer that has worked in their department. These training suggestions should be in as much detail as possible.

None of these pages will be able to appear on this site unless you the viewer of the site contribute. This is your chance to be a participating member in the nation's fire service. We urge you to submit material for any of the pages above. Submit material by sending it to LynbrookFD379@yahoo.com.
